ELLISON VAN HOOSE

Elison Van Hoose, the new American tenor of the Chicago Grand Opera company, who will be at Bethel College, Feb. 18 h, is a native of Tennessee. As a boy he had an alto voice of great beauty, and was taught the rudiments of music by his mother, an accomplished musician. In 1895 he began the serious study of voice production, devoting several years under such distinguished masters as Isidore Luckstone, of New York; Henry Wood, of London; and Fidele Koenig and Jean De Reszke, of Paris.

After holding several metropolitan positions, Mr. Van Hoose was engaged for the Damrosch and Ellis Grand Opera company, and for two years sang in opera with every increasing success. Later he won great favor at the Promenade Concerts in London, and returned to America for another season in opera. A second series of London triumphs began when he appeared at the London Festivals under such conductors as Lamortetz, Richter, Wood and Manns. After spending a year in Paris, Mr. Van Hoose returned to America, and has since devoted himself to opera, concert and oratorio with unbroken success. He has appeared with all the important orchestral and oratorio societies of the country, and has sung at the Spring Festivals of the South and East. Mr. Van Hoose created a leading role in Egan's "Dream of Garontius," with the N. Y. Oratorio Society in 1903, and it has since been considered one of the most effective in his repertoire.

For four years Mr. Van Hoose was associated with Madame Melba, two in opera and two in concert, while two extensive concert tours with Madame Sembrich in the spring of 1907-1908, added very materially to his reputation. During the past 3 years he has sung under the direction of Arthur Nikisch, both in the famous Gewandhaus Concerts of Leipzig, and with the Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra. He has also sung in the principal opera house of Germany, Sweden, Norway, England and Italy with every possible success.

Now Mr. Van Hoose, with a remarkably extensive repertoire in English, French, German and Italian, returns to his native land to reach the highest point in his career, to sing first tenor roles in the Chicago Grand Opera Company.

As for the voice itself, one can only say that Mr. Van Hoose has been singularly blessed. He is a pure tenor, and is classed as a lyric dramatic, of never-failing sweetness, purity and warmth. Although he is essentially a temperamental singer, he has thoroughly learned the art of self-control and never forces his voice, but sings with all the ease and purity to be found in a great artist.
